

Attentive & Reliable

CAREGIVING

for Individuals with

PNEUMONIA

Pneumonia can be severe in older adults, who may need monitoring and care to prevent potential complications. Pain, fatigue, and other symptoms may make activities of daily living laborious.

Our Home Care Aides have been providing specialized care to pneumonia patients since 2009. Thoroughly trained and observant, our team is here to assist with everything from meal preparation to personal hygiene.

Thorough and Up-to-Date Training

With more than 150 hours of documented, state-accredited training, each of our Home Care Aides is proficient in the highest standards of care for pneumonia patients. In addition our Aides are familiar with the pathophysiology and types of pneumonia, prevention, as well as treatment of pneumonia.

Observant & Vigilant

Monitoring pneumonia is essential to preventing potential complications from occurring. Presidio Aides are here to observe your loved one's vital signs, assess and manage pain, and track and promote regular sleep. Should signs of complications arise, our Aides can help to ensure that your loved one receives immediate treatment.

OUR APPROACH

Assist with ADLs (Activities of Daily Living)

Pneumonia patients may find doing everyday chores tiring. Our Home Care Aides are here to assist your loved one with everything that needs to be done. This way, the patient's body does not need to fuel recovery from exertion, in addition to recovery from the infection.

Provide Transportation

When an individual with pneumonia is cared for at home, follow-up hospital visits may be required. Our Home Care Aides can safely transport your loved one to the doctor's office, from your home through the hospital doors. All of our Aides have a safe, insured vehicle and a clean driving history.

Manage Medication

Antibiotics may be prescribed to help your loved one fight off the infection. Our Home Care Aides can see to it that the correct dose is taken at the correct times and ensure that the full course of antibiotics is completed. This lowers the risk of the infection returning.

Eat a Healthy Diet

Seniors with pneumonia may experience a loss of appetite. Our Home Care Aides can shop for and prepare nutritious foods to make sure your loved one's calorific requirements are met. Our team also assists with hydration reminders, as fluids may help to loosen mucus.
